REMARKS                     

50X1-HUM

- On 9 September 1951, eight companies of soldiers, with red-bordered black epaulets and carrying a flag, were seen marching toward Damm airfield quarters, coming from the direction of Jueterbog (N 54/E 69). Training activity in the airfield area on 10 September included loading and aiming practice by four groups of soldiers on four mortars; close-combat drill of two groups of soldiers; instruction of one group of soldiers on a four-wheel armored scout car; and instruction on armored personnel carriers mounting AA machine guns.

                     About 800 Russian women had arrived at Jueterbog by the end of September. The German personnel employed by the Russians were discharged on 1 October.                     

                     the German labor office, or its successor, would be subordinate to Soviet authority and                      any person refusing to accept the job assigned by the Russians would be shipped to the U.S.S.R. 50X1-HUM

- On 24 September, the barracks installation on Am Kapellenberg was occupied by 400 to 500 troops who wore red-bordered black epaulets, including some with tank insignia. Two officers and 25 MI wearing red-bordered black epaulets, including some with tank and motor transport insignia, and wearing gas masks, were seen marching into the installation. Another group of soldiers, who also wore gas masks, marched to the Fuchsberg Kaserne.

                     No data on the strength of troops in the Fuchsberg Kaserne could be obtained. Soldiers observed entering and leaving the installation wore red-bordered black epaulets with tank insignia. Some of the private residences on the south side of Fuchsbergstrasse were included in the billeting area of the Fuchsberg Kaserne.
